

From CJAM (Community Justice and Medication Center)

www.cjamcenter.org

EVENT IS FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18
5:30 Reception and Silent Auction
6:30 Dinner and Program

You are invited to join CJAM for its annual fund-raising event that inspires peaceful resolution of conflict. Indiana University Maurer Law School Faculty and nationally-recognized scholar Jeannine Bell, will headline the evening, as she challenges us to “come to the table”, in this era of increasing polarization and division—politically, racially, and economically. Professor Bell, who has written about hate crime and housing integration for the last 20 years, grapples with these issues in her talk. She will explore how the current state of housing segregation leads most Americans to live racially separate lives and close with a discussion of repairing this fracture, a challenge both harder and easier than one might think. Audience Q & A will follow!

Reserve Your Tickets Now

www.cjamcenter.org

This thought-provoking event takes place at the historic Woolery Mill with catering provided by One World. The evening includes a cocktail reception, silent auction, and dinner. After dinner, guests can practice their negotiation skills during the Dessert Dash, competing for delicious locally made desserts! Come to the Table has sold out for the past four years, so don't delay in reserving your tickets now!